DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1, 5, 8, 10-17, 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Frascaroli et al in view of Weber. The patent to Frascaroli et al teaches structure substantially as claimed including support post(13) including a mouth and lips, channel (fig. 4), locking means (25), support element, first and second locating formation, the only difference being that the locking means is not located towards the lower end of the second locating formation. However, the patent to Weber(at 9, 9b) teaches the use of providing a locking means at a lower end of a locating structure to cause the upper end of the location formation to push against an inner face be old. It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to modify the structure of Frascaroli et al to include the locking means towards a lower end of the locating means, as taught by Weber since such structures are conventional alternative structures used in the same intended purpose and further would have been a predictable outcome, thereby providing structure as claimed. The number of formations is a matter of desirability of how much adaptability and adjustability is desired and such structures would perform in an obvious manner of a multiplicity of like structures.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Frascaroli et al in view of Weber as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Lininger, Jr. et al. The patent to Frascaroli et al in view of Weber teaches structure substantially as claimed as discussed above including a support post, the only difference being that there is no attachment expressly stated to provide connection of the posts end to end. However, the patent to Lininger, Jr. et al teaches the use of providing end to end connecting structure (fig. 8) to be old. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the structure of Frascaroli et al to include end to end post connecting structure, as taught by Lininger, Jr et al since such structures are conventional structures used in the same intended purpose, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Baublits, Penn, Nehls, Trotta, Harvie teach structure similar to applicant's.
